How is content organized in gsLearn?

The Content Library is organized into courses and learning paths.

Courses consist of one or more short modules and cover a single topic (example: Bronze Award). If a course is virtual or in-person instead of online, the course module will give instructions for how to register for the course.

A learning path is a collection of related courses on a broad topic or showing a progression of learning (example: Camping Skills).
How is my training tracked in gsLearn?

To view your training history select Achievements in the left navigation pane.

You may also upload certificates for courses not tracked in gsLearn or that were completed outside of GSEM through the External Learning tab.

In the coming months, your previously completed GSEM courses will also be added to your Achievements in gsLearn.
How do I know what courses to take?

- Some courses may be assigned to you by virtue of your volunteer role (Leader, Neighborhood Manager, Cookie Manager, etc.). These will be found directly on your gsLearn dashboard.

- Occasionally a course assigned to you might be mandatory and/or have a time limit for completion (example: New Leader Training), but most courses are available to you without conditions.

- Courses and learning paths in the Content Library can be filtered by category or topic, or searched if you know the name of the course.

- The Content Library also contains Movement-wide courses and learning paths created by GSUSA that could enhance your learning experience.

- Helpful Tip: When completing a course it may be paused, stopped, and restarted as needed without losing your progress.

- All online courses may be found in gsLearn starting August 21, 2020.
- In addition, online courses currently hosted on our website training page will remain there until August 31, 2020 while volunteers transition to gsLearn for their training needs. Starting on September 1, 2020 online courses for volunteers will only be found in gsLearn.
- Live in-person and virtual courses will also be tracked in gsLearn. You will find a registration link when you open any live course in gsLearn. Follow that link to complete the course registration (including any associated costs) as you would normally.
- To track the completion of a live course, volunteers are asked to return to the course in gsLearn after their live session and complete the confirmation module. Course participation will then be verified by Adult Education and the course will be marked as complete.
